

ANDREW STOKES

(206) 607-4162
stokes@carneylaw.com

Andrew Stokes is a commercial litigator with experience in a wide array of practice areas. Andrew helps his clients navigate commercial disputes with an eye toward their business objectives. Andrew has particular experience managing electronic discovery, including in complex litigation. He also advises clients on various issues related to attorney-client privilege, including in non-litigation context.

Prior to joining Carney, Andrew was an associate at an international law firm, and before that he spent several years as a business intelligence analyst for a Seattle-based company. Andrew maintains a robust pro bono practice; his recent cases have focused on civil rights litigation and immigration representation. When he is not practicing law, Andrew enjoys spending time outdoors, playing Dungeons & Dragons, and relaxing with his partner and cat.

Education

JD, Seattle University School of Law, 2018

BA, Whitman College, 2008

Bar and Court Admissions

State of Washington

U.S. District Court, Western District of Washington

U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Washington

U.S. Court of Appeals, Ninth Circuit

Professional Associations

Washington State Bar Association

Speaking Engagements

“Careers in e-Discovery” Panel Discussion at Seattle University School of Law, March 2022

“How to be and Expert at Witnessing,” co-presented with Sean Selin and Hon. Michael J. Trickey (Ret.), Computer Technology Investigators Network Conference, May 2019